my Eyes of Blue May this be a wonderful year for you and may the LORD make you feel just a glimpse of how blessed it feels to be your person to be, instead the most blessed person that has ever lived knowing that you are my bride to be.

i love you Rebecca Marie Gabrielle Gardner

The Invitation

by Percy Bysshe Shelley (1792-1822)

But not brightest, one may Faster far than this fair Day, Which, like thee to time is sworn,
Comes to bid a sweet good-morrow
To the rough year just made In its cradle on the brake.

The brightest hour of winter Spring,
Through the winter wakening, Fond, it stings the hibern Wren
To leave February bare.

Working from Heaney, in azure mirth, It kicked the freshet of the Earth, and soiled upon the silicate sea,
and bade the frozen streams be free, and waded to music all their frantically and breathed upon the frozen mountains and like a prophetic of May Strewed flowers upon the barren way making the winter world appear Like June on whom than smilest, Dan

Amny, many, from men and towns, to the wild wood and the downs - to the silent wilderness Where the soul need not oppress Its music lost it should not find An echo in another's mind.
While the touch of nature's out Hermesizes hearts to heart

There is no beauty that compares to your beauty
i love you and i am yours semper
and you are mine and we belong to GOD

Expectation too be off!

They is for itself enough, Hope, in pity, make not like with smiles, nor follow where I go; Long having lived in the sweet find,
At length I find one moment's good After long pain - with all your love, This you never told me of!!

Radiant Sister of the Day, Awake! Arise! And come away,
To the wild woods and the plains,
And the pines where winter rains Image all their roof of leaves,
Where the pine its girdled nooses Of spruce green, and in the Round stems that near kiss the sun;
Where the lums and postures be,
And the swallows of the sea: -
Where the melting, haw-foot wets
The dry-stone that never sets,
And wind-flowers, and wilds,
Which yet you not sent to here, Green the pale you work and new,
When the night is left behind
In the deep east, sun and blind,
And the blue moon is over us
And the multitudes Billows murmur at our feet,
Where the earth and ocean meet,
And all things seem only one In the universal sun.
